MINI Cooper Countryman & Cooper Countryman ALL4

The MINI Cooper Countryman comes with a 1.5L TwinPower Turbo 3-cylinder engine that delivers 134 horsepower and 162 lb-ft of torque. Not only does it provide plenty of get-up-and-go power, but it can help you travel farther for longer.

That's because the Cooper achieves an EPA-estimated 27 combined MPG, while the Cooper ALL4 achieves an EPA-estimated 25 combined MPG. With either fuel economy rating, you can spend hours on the road before needing to stop and refuel.

As we mentioned before, this vehicle can come in either front-wheel drive or ALL4, the latter of which gives you extra traction on slick surfaces.
